

Each spring, beginning in 2019 through the generosity of donors, Midwest Hope & Healing presented grants in partnership with The Moline Foundation to 501(c)(3) non-profits and faith-based groups throughout the Quad Cities region which supported patients and families fighting cancer.

More than a decade ago, the Midwest Hope & Healing group comprised of Colleen Borts, Laura Danay and Linda Watson made a promise to their donors, to honor those individuals throughout the Quad Cities and surrounding communities who were newly diagnosed with breast cancer.

The women worked tirelessly to fulfill their mission and for more than 16 years, offering comfort, support, and optimism to over 3,800 breast cancer patients through the distribution of their signature "healing baskets."

Although the basket distribution ceased in 2019, their mission does not. They continue to serve those same patients moving forward through the Midwest Hope & Healing Endowment Fund. Forever serving those going through the breast cancer journey.

Their deepest gratitude is extended to all who have supported Midwest Hope & Healing in the past and those who help to keep the legacy going.

Donate Here to the Midwest Hope & Healing Fund